This vast and to a great extent nuexplored re-gion sends forth many great men to make their mark in the broad world outside, and while Col. Wrighte can not basst that he is from Nurth Csrothia, near the Virginia ilue," he can at least truthfully elaim that he is from the Balubridge district near the Trigg county line.

Of his enrly life we are sorry to say we are totally and pulnfully igto establish the fact that Cel. Wrighte was at the time of his birth, smaller and even nglier than he is now. It is said that his homeliness was so consplenous that his very ngthese stopped the old family clock which had been ticking away for years on the mantel-piece. He flustly worked like way into this vicinity and ahout ten years ago a party of small boys, who were eating blackherries not far from Hepkinsville, came running home with asher faces and hair stamling on end and reported that they had seen a wild man in the blackherry patch and that when he saw them he lu-mediately ran away and disappeared lu the woods. The boys were langhed at, but the nextiday a different party hrought in the same report, and great excitement was created. The boys slated that they had never seen anything like it. It had long hair that hang down over its shoulders and keen little black eyes that looked at them in a trightened way. One of the bravest of the boys tried to approach near enough to catch it by putting suit on it, but it had sped away on the wings of the wimi as soon as they approached it. To say that the city was excited does not convey the idea. Nothing else was thought of and talked of, and the male population turned out the uext day for the purpose of entelling the wild man. The blackberry patch was currounded at the hour at which he was known to take tils ment nul there sure enough was the object they were seeking. The circle around the patch was gradually closed up and when at last the wild man, or rather boy, attempted to brenk through the line he was captured by Honest John Moayon, who returned to Hultle Mon's Souls-Charley's Trip to Cinclimati and Itis tiams of Illitards-The Suteldal Marla Amme the Unforlunates.

AMONG THE INSANE.

In the past few weeks I have spent, upon different occasions, a portion of a dny in the Dayton Asyloto for Insane, and have picked up quite a number of matters which f believe will be of interest. One of the first matters of consequence that dawned on my mind was the fact that nny such institution where six bandred ludividuals bereft of the power of their renson are linddled together, there surely must be skeletons la the closet, and this thought is strenglenhed by the fact that there was a percelvable effort an the part of all the officials and attaches of the last that he as obliging stal politicals are residile. to be as obliging and polito as possible, yot they, none of them, showed any de-sire to talk of the very matters that I wanted to learn something about. And this was not because of any fear of newspaper notoriety, as not a living soul but myself knew I was colleating mater al for a new spaper letter. It seems to be the even tenor of their lecting ninher all for a new spaper letter.

It seems to be the even tenor of their ways with all visitars, and indeed it could not be otherwise, if the welfare of the institution is to be considered, for were they to tell the secrets of a hospital of this kind the people would be shocked with anonement. I know from what I learned that there are secrets in this asylum of which even the officials know nothing.

This inoident I picked up through a reporter in this city previous to my visits to the asylum, and f reproduce it here iscenuse of its fantastic eccentricity. The young man who tells the story is now engaged in this city, though previously he was in the employ of the asylum. Anong the noncerous patients of the histilution are a great many who are allowed to wander about the grounds. Among this number was a young woman, who shortly after the birth of her first child became in same. She was an extremely handsome creature, who when takked to was attenting it is not its subject in the compliance of the razer seratching him, whereupon Tom hid it on the window-silt and got out another one. While he noticed Francis. wherenon found it on the window-sine. She was an extremely handsome silt and got out another one. While he creature, who when talked to gather was stropping it he noticed Francis standing in the door, looking furtively into the room. Before her mind gave way she was the manual bounded by him and had known as a happy, vivacious creature, who enjoyed life, but after becoming insane she took a religious turn and then became melaneholy, and would not talk except when it was necessary. She was a handy person about the asylum, and a nandy person about the asymm, and could be pot at most any work. Her natoe was Mand, and she probably had more synopathetic friends than any other patient in the institution, which can be attributed to bee heauty of face.
One day she accosted my informant, asking him if he did not want to see her asking him if he did not want to see ner-two sools. The question, as was nat-oral, aronsed the young man's enriceity, and he followed her into the cellar of one of the heildings adjoining the say-lum proper. She took him to the darkest corner, where she held up before him a two-onnee bottle she had taken from a erevice, and reionrked:

"There they are, and bound to keep so. The one is the soul of Stanewall Juckson, and the other my hashand's." The young man took the bottle near er to the faint mys of light that shot through the cellar grating, and saw that the bottom was covered with n greenish liquid, evidently water discolored by age. The lady maniac went on to ex-plain there was no need of any souls being lost; that the could save them all if the people would only let her cut them out and put them into her bottle. Sho knew the sonl's home was on top the heart, and could be cut ont without any trouble.

Stonewall Jackson's soul was In the Stonewait Jackson's soul was in the bottle when she got it frem the spirits, and she had since put her husband's in. After explaining all these things she asked the young mnn for his pen-knife, and 'old him if he would iny down she would get his soul ent in a few minutes, and put it in the bottle to keep the other the community. two company. But the young man seemed to have no desire to have his soul preserved. This young lady has since recovered, and is now at home with hor family, attending to ber house hold duties as well as mny worumn in the

At night, when the patients in a ward are focked in their rooms, they place their clothes outside of the door in the hallway, so that an attendant knows they are all in their places. This is always done. On a certain night the attendant of the ward in which Charley was a nitear had correspond this duty. Keep Looking roung.

He went direct to the depot and got Its went direct to the depot and got on top the last car of the midnight express, beund for Cincinnati. So thoughtful was he that he lequired as to what stations the train stopped at, and when it left flamilton he ran forward to the first car, and when the conductor passed through he clambered down off the top while the train was running thirty miles or more an hour, and took a seat in the warm car, as independ. thirty infles or more an hour, and took a seat in the warm car, as independently as if he was the President of the rond. The conductor did not come through the train again, for Hamilton was the last stop before reaching Cinciunt, and Charley, instance as he was seemed to understand that he was safe inside the car after it left Hamilton, for the train making no stone could of the troln, making no stops, could, of course, not take on any passengers. That he remained on top the car in the bitter cold until the train reached this point is evidence conclusive that he knew exactly what he was doing. Ite reached Chreinanti without any trouble, went straight to the Gibson House and registered. As luck would bave it, the next person to register, who stepped up to the counter not ten minutes after he left it, was an acquaintance of his from his home. The name met his eye, and alter speaking to the clerk he immagnd to eatch sight of Charley as be came from the bath-rooms. The friend at once telegraphed rooms. "Tom, I aln't mind at you, but I want yon to know, once for all, that I am going to ent my threat, and I'll do it, no matter how much you watch me."

And, indeed, he kept his word.

The next day Tom was aroused by a terrible crush of falling glass at the extreme end of the ward, where is located the wash and bath-rooms. He ran to the place, and there stood Fran-cis with his thrent ent almost from ear to ear. He laughed derisively at Tom as he entered the room. He had broken the window with his fist, and with a piece of the glass cut his thront. He had severed the windplpe, and when he attempted to laugh a gutteral sound was nll that could be heard.

Tom grasped the gaping would in one hand and held it together as much as possible to stop the flow of blood as much as was in bis power. Two of the asylum physicians were on hand almost lustantly. They took the putient in hand, and by sheer force sewed up the horrible wound, but as soon as the management. niac was put to bed he tore out the stitches. The wound was sewed up a second time, and the suickle's hands lneased in a pair of leather muffs, when he managed to tenr the stitches by jerk-ing his hend backward and forward. and from side to side. He was then put in a crib, and a box made to place his bead and shoulders in, so that it was atterly impossible for him to move the least bit. He was kept in this contrivance for nearly seven weeks, much of which time it was very doubtful whether he would recover or not. After heins taken from the crib he was transferred to ward 19. Ilis hands for a long to ward 19. His hands for a long time afterward were kept in the lenther muss, but he linally indoced the at-tendant, on promise to not ngain at-tempt sulcide, to take them off. Tom, his old attendant, upon learning of this fact, called on the new keeper and told bim he would regret taking off the unifs acver ufter that attempted suichle. One remarkable feature about this man's case was that he never attempted or seemed to contamplate ending his life any other way than by cutting his thron: After recovering from his second terrible experience he senmed second terrible experience he senued to improve. If econtinued growing better, until finnily his folks, upen their own responsibility, took him home, where he continued foing well until senue time in May last, when he again showed symptoms of returning insanity, but before he grew had enough to be returned to the asylum, ho was kicked on the head by a horse, sostaining of fractured skull, which in the course of a few days resulted in his death.

a few days resulted in the course of a few days resulted in his death.

Many other equally as thrilling and horrible truths can be picked up at almost any insance asylum of any note. Many more incidents that would make very interesting rending came to my notice during my visits, some of them very indicrons, others puthetic, while the above are among the most terrible. There is one old man at prosent in the Dnyton Asylum who donated $100 to the institution when it was built and the institution when it was built, and this fact is one of the very few things he never loss sight of, it seems to burn into the poor fellow's very soil. There are a number of the luminter who There are a number of the Inmuter who in some way have got it into their poor brains that they are there waiting for pay-day, and the attendants tell use it is very touching when several of them become impatient and demand their mensy on threats to leave. They often claim their wives and children are starving, and they must have their money or they will also X is in straight. starving, and they must have the imoney or they w'll ile. It is interly impossible for one to imag'no the har rowing thoughts that a short study of an insune asylum and its patients will awaken. It must be experienced to be appreciated.—Ide May, in Cincinnate Enquirer.

Foote and the Lawvers.

Foote never tired of roasting the lawyers with his wit, of which a sample may he given. A simple country furmer, who had just baried a rich relation, an attorney, was complaining to him that the expenses of a country funeral, in respect to carriages, hat bands, searfs, etc., were very great. "What, do you bury your attorneys here?" asked bin he would regret taking off the mnffs before the week was over, and sure enough be did. The third day after the muss were taken off the attendant was in his room cutting a small piece of to bacco off of a large ping with a small pon-knife, when Francis sprang into the room, grasped the knife out of his hand, and before the keeper, could interfere, drew it across his own throat. THE SITUATION MORE CLOUDED. London, Oct. 14.—The Standard this morning says: "The situation in the East has become more clouded within the last forty-eight hours. The problem could be dealt with eftectually if the triple alliance were united as it pretends to be. The problem now for Bismarck is how to settle the pending difficulty so as to prevent Russia and Austria from tighting.

LONDON, Oct. 14 .- It is reported that King-Milan of Servin has informed the Powers that he must either go to war or abdleate his throne, and that he has deelded to go to war. He has prepared a manifesto to his army, which, it is expected will be issued

AMONG THE SCALPERS.

A New and Queer Race of People Bronght Into Being By the Rallroads. with the rallroad husiness have knowledge of the extent to which the ticket-scalping business bas developed The business is a mest peculiar one, senators and 110 representatives of and possesses points which are intrihis established rules are uccessary at times when the disposul of a ticket at these when the disposit of a feece is concerned. St. Paul lins its block-ors; just as sharp once as are in Kansas C ty or Ind anapolis, the two coughest scalping cities in America, with the exception of Chicago, which does not count.

The work of the scalpers and their

The RESULT.

The entire Republican State ticket was elected and a working Republican majority secured in the Legislature. This means the re-election of Lohn Showner to the Livical States. ture. This means the re-election of John Sherman to the United States Senato.

Senato.

The latest reports indicate a majority of over 20,000 for the Republican State ticket. The Legislature is very close but the Republicans claims. very close but the Republicans claims geno one as to give thele east in a majority of two on joint ballot.

Both sides are charging gross frands them. When there is a rate war them. When there is a rate war the salpers generally lay in a large stock of tickets at a low price and when rates are restored; they can make a rate that salprises the general passenger agents and ticket agents of the roads. They have broker filends at St. Lenis, Kansas City and Chicago, and when they have not through tickets in stock (lickets reading to point; beyond the places named) thoy give the person a letter of introduct on to their agent in those places, who furnithes a ticket through to destination.

The railroad companies possist in declaring the scalpers a nuisanoa and an

An eagle measuring over slx feet claring the scalpers a nuisance and an trom tip to tip was killed in Oldham evil, but they uppear to be a necessary evil, for the first thing a railroad company looks out for in St. Pinnl is to have u good sealper—one who can tell a straightforward, up-and-down yaru without oracking a smile and huve a purchaser take it as though it was a purchaser take it as though it was a context. Craig Tolliver, the Rowan county desperado, is on trail in Cincinnation this week for robbery.

The paying of commusions to scalpers a heing ser only considered by all railroad companies in the country, and it is very probable that commissions will be aboli hel. this happens the scalper will have to depend entirely on the revenue recoved from the profit on scalped ti kets. This would have the offeet of driving n number out of the bus ue s. as the decreased revenue would not support them all. A dozen years ugo all tickets were unlimited ones. When the rait their effect was felt, as it prevented scalp ag at local points. Thosa imi ed ileket has a number of coupons, air one of which the holder could detach and present to the conductor; but the livited present this, as the whole of the ficket has to be presented to the conductor for passage to desilan ian. The old still of tickets made it a very easy thing to commence the brokerage basiness, but now that the limit is short the tickets are more didicult to handle Lately the railroad comparies have been using an irone at licket, which requires the purchaser's signature when the ticket is bought, and again the purcuaser must sign in presence of the agent of the counceding line on his rehing from Chicago to St. Paul uml tha In s from Kausas City to St. Faul are selling round trap tourist tickets at a The same thing is alone to and from every point in the United States Tall oes to show that if the railroad comparies alld not approve, assist and potest the scalpers their names would be Dennis. They could not exist. A il set swiper is really a middleman between the railroad a matternam between the railrond companes and the public, or rather in st. Paul they are a med an through which the railroad companies sell their tickets, and generally all railroad companies will how and call a ticket scalpor a domoralizer of thorates when he really could not cut any rute without their consent. They do this, however, to throw the burden off their own ever, to throw the birden off their own shoulders. There are somany railreads running to compet tive points in the United States that the long lines mean to compete with the short lines, and just tickets on sale by indirect routes as chean as the short lines do, which naturally scalps the local points on this line. There are points on the Northern Pacitic Railway where tickets, can be bought to Chieggo via St. Paul Northorn Pacific Railway where tickets, can he bought to Chicago via St. Panl as cheapiy as to St. Panl proper.

The consequence is that the passenger buys to Chicago, and on arrival la St. Paul scalps the part of his ticket reading St. Paul to Chicago, and thereby gets back a portion of his fare to St. Panl. This ticket Is held by the sculper until someone comes along and wants to purchase a ticket to Chicago. The regular second class wants to purchase a ticket to Chicago. The regular second class fare is $9, and he will sell this ticket at perhaps a reduction of $2, and he thereby makes something binaself, the passenger saves $2, and the railroud company gets the rate it asks. This shows that the scalper is a necessary evil to both the railroad companies and the public.—St. Paul Jobe. panies and the public .- St. Paul lobe.

DIED.

Mr. James Richardson, one of the best known eitlzens of the county, died at Pembroke, last Tuesday, in the 70th year of his age. He had been for some time in very feeble heath, and his death was not unexpected. Mr. Richardson was born ln Pittsyivania county, Virginia, In March 1816, and came to Kentucky shortly after attaining his majority. He settled in the southern part of this county where he lived for three years, when he moved to Pembroke. The latter place was his heme from that thue until his death. He was a man of the strictest lutegrity, the highest moral character and the most sincere christian piety. As a citizen he was a one whose great usefulness was feit in the community and who will be sorciy missed. As a man he enjoyed the warmest friendship of all who knew him. He leaves a family of grown children and a large number of relatives to iament his death. The funeral services were hold by Rev. J. M. Peay, in the Baptist church, at Pembroke, on Wed-

Bicycles.

It is only very recently that bicydes have been allowed on the streets of Hopkinsville. In fact the bicycle itself ranks among the recent invendons, so recent that it appears in the supplement of Webster's Unabridged Dictionary with the newly colned velocipede, deriving its name from the Latin cyclus or Greek kuklos, a wheel, and the prefix bl, meaning twice. "A bicycle is a two wheeled velocipede, especially one having a very large wheel, above which is the seat for the rider, and one quite small following behind. It is propelled by the action of the feet upon cranks attached to the axle of the large wheel and can be driven with great speed.' Some years ago a bicycle appeared upon the streets of Hopkinsville. Somebody's horse was scared thereby and the Board of Connellmen according the riding of bicycles upon any of the streets of the city. Last summer some of the young gentlemen of the city Interested themselves in the matter and the present Beard of City Fathers repealed the obnoxious ordinance. Since that time there has been a gradual introduction of bleycles into the city. Mr. Thos. W. Long was one of the first to order one but when he attempted to ride it he received a fall at the very outset that discouraged him and he returned the bicycle. Roy. A. C. knowing of the probibitory ordinance and when it came having learned of it he returned the bicyclo the very day the ordinance was repealed. Both of those mentioned above were very elegant machines and cost over $130

There are now ten bleycles owned ln and about the city. Of these Dr. ti. W. Stone's is the finest and best. Dr. Stone rides into the city on it from the Asylum and is considered an expert bicyclist. The others are owned by boys and are cheap ones, costing from $10 to $20, or thereabouts. Following is a list of the youths who own them: Alex. Overshiner, Alex. A Lucky Pick Stroke .

Four miners sat, one night in June, 1858, in a tent at an Australian digging discussing their future plans and deploying their Ill fortune. For weary months they had worked the mine without getting more than a bare living. At length they decided to leave the spot, though not without regret. Three of them were in the mine taking a last look around, when one of them said to his mates, "Good-bye, I'll give you a farewell blow," and with his pick seut the splinters of quartz in all quarters. I have taken Swift's Specific for blood poison contracted at a medical college at a dissection, while I was a medical student. I am gratefui to say that It gave me a speedy and therough curo after my parents had spent hundreds of dollars for treatment. My arm was swollen to twice its usual size, and as nothing helped me I was despairing of ever being the twas despathing of the S. S., I bought a bottle little thinking I would derive any benefit from it. I began taking It regularly, soon the swelling hegan to go down and the arm ceased to pain me. I contlined its use, and after taking eight bottles was throughly cured.
